Introduction

This list of personnel has been compiled whilst researching A history of the 9th Battalion Royal Scots, and forms an index of various sources. Users are in all cases directed to the source information.

I hope it will be of some use to those researching family members. Please be aware that there is considerable room for error in a list such as this, and sincere apologies are expressed for any errors that may be found.

Similarly, this index points at a lot of other people's hard work, and their publications should always be viewed to see the information in its original form. If you wish something deleted, or would like an attribution changed, please contact me.

Corrections, clarifications and additions are all welcome to neillgilhooley@gmail.com

Notes on the Index

1. Names are for the 9th Bn Royal Scots including 2/9th and 3/9th, attached etc.
2. The left hand column of the list contains an alphabetical list of surnames and information. The right hand column provides a reference, listed below under "Sources," or "-" where a direct weblink or source is provided in the main text box
3. Names therefore often appear more than once, from different sources. These may not always be grouped together, for example where the surname is followed by either initials or a full forename the same man may appear on different pages. Different spellings are also evident, some surnames are quoted single- or double-barrelled, such as Haddon or Ross Haddon, and with and without a hyphen, like Henderson Hamilton. Other variations can be found with names such as McEwen and MacEwen, or de Berry. To find a piece of text, press Ctrl and F to open a search box
4. Some of the original hand written text or print is not clear so errors may have been introduced by eye or by scanning to text, in all instances the reader is directed to the original and to the image rather than the scanned text version
5. Speculative connections are preceded by "?"

SWB	Silver War Badge record from ancestry.co.uk. A search on "Discharge Unit: 9 R. Scots" (exact) gives 169 returns. Suspiciously 106 of these are listed in a new field of 'regiment' as Cameronians (Scottish Rifles) and these have been marked with [*]. The two regiments can be confused if their initials are transposed. Original source quoted as War Office and Air Ministry: Service Medal and Award Rolls, First World War . Silver War Badge. Left Daniel Stewart's July 1914. Dental apprentice to Mr Girdwood, Ainslie Place. While at the College he was a member of the Cadet Corps and in Sept 15 received comm and posted RS. Sent to the front early in January 1917 and fell in action 9.4.17 while taking part in the great advance. He was in command of a platoon, his obj being the second line Germna trench. He had gained his obj and was on the parapet encouraging his men when he was instantaneously killed. A somewhat shy boy of a sweet and winning disposition he was a universal favourite at school alike with masters and pupils. As he was at school so he was in the army. "His platoon adored him" says his Captain and the Chaplain of his bn writes that "he left a very sweet and fragrant memory"... A mere boy in years and youthful-looking even for his age, he had yet won and retained the confidence of his men by virtue of his fine qualities of head and heart. The Adjutant writes: "I remember his joining us at Peebles. He looked so young that one wondered if he was not altogether too much of a boy to be put in charge of grown men. But we soon saw that here was no ordinary boy. He was earnest in his work, eager to learn, willing, obedient, and courteous, and he soon won his way to our hearts and our esteem." "As time went on and he developed, I came to look upon him as one of my most trusted platoon commanders. 'Little Adams,' as the company sergeant-major and I called him, was soon the officer in my company who was looked upon as steady, cool and reliable. By the time we were in Selkirk, I used to hand over to him a complete platoon of sixty untrained recruits. You could see these men smile to themselves when they were handed over to such a youngster. But they soon discovered who was uppermost, and they took no liberties after a few days. After a few weeks they didn't want to take any, for they trusted and loved their officer. They would have gone anywhere and done anything for him, and they boasted openly of him to other men. He won their respect and had the truest and highest qualities of the British officer. The surest indication of a man's character is shown by how his men regard him, and 'Little Adams' was worshipped by his men. Later in Stobs he did excellent work, and when we moved down to this strenuous command he was chosen to the most important subaltern's position, i.e. instructor of musketry to the whole battalion. I knew he felt it a heavy load, but right well did he carry it during his appointment and gained further credit. Again and again he was retained from drafts owing to his instructional powers, but the time came at last for him to leave us. Right gallantly he went, as we knew he would, to face what lay before him. And when I learnt the news on returning from London, I felt as if I had lost a dear friend.

“My servant met me at the station, and it was the first thing he said. He in common with us all was a devoted admirer of James.

“I am afraid I cannot put on paper all we thought of the boy, but his devotion to duty, his cheerfulness, and his clean manly life and example have been and will be for good in the lives of all the men who had the honour to serve under him.

“He died as he lived, with the thought of devotion to duty in the service of his King and Country, and fighting in the noblest cause for which men have ever fallen. His memory will live in the annals of our regiment as one who was well worthy of the old ‘Royals,’ an officer of His Majesty’s First Regiment, and a worthy hero.”

Affleck, Robert B. DALKEITH 'DANDY NINTH' MAN KILLED Intimation has been received by Mr and Mrs Affleck that their son, Private Robert B. Affleck, 1/9th Royal Scots, was killed by the bursting of a shell in the trenches on Saturday last. Private Affleck was a prominent cricketer, who had done much for the success of the Dalkeith Cricket Club, both as a player and also as secretary. He was an official of the National Health Insurance, and a lad of great promise. He was twenty-two years of age. Edinburgh Evening Dispatch 15 th May 1915 -	-

Affleck, Robert Bell, Pte 2112 b. Lochmaben, memorials Buccleuch Street Church, Dalkeith; Dalkeith; Dalkeith High School. Son of James and Eliza Affleck [Dalkeith Advertiser 20 May 1915]: A feeling of profound regret has been caused locally by the intimation received, in the end of last week, that Private Robert B. Affleck, 1/9th Battalion (Highlanders), the Royal Scots had been killed in action on 8th May. The sad news was conveyed in a letter from a comrade at the front to the deceased's parents, Mr and Mrs James Affleck, 4 Muirpark. It seems that an enemy shell burst in the trenches, inflicting injuries, to which he succumbed in half-an-hour, on young Affleck, and wounding two others. Four of his comrades took up his body and gave it reverent burial near the scene of action at Ypres. Prior to the outbreak of war, Private Affleck was employed in the Frederick Street Office (Edinburgh) of the Scottish Insurance Commissioners, with every prospect of a bright and successful future before him, but when the appeal went forth calling the manhood of the country to arms he unhesitatingly cast aside all personal considerations, and offered his service to the "Dandy Ninth". Deceased, who was 22 years of age, was a well-known member of Dalkeith Cricket Club, to which he has acted as secretary up to the time of his enlisting, and was one of the most enthusiastic and successful players the club has possessed in recent years. His batting was exceedingly steady and he had many fine scores to his credit, whilst his fielding was always brilliant, either at cover-point or slip. In that connection it is sufficient to say that during four successive matches last season he secured ten catches. Popular alike with players and spectators of the summer game, he will be greatly missed. Practically every available member of last year's first and second elevens have enlisted, and the club will, therefore, not be able to carry out a very fine card of fixtures arranged for this summer. At the close of the service in Buccleuch Street Church last Sabbath morning, Mr Fraser made sympathetic reference. He said that there had been four wounded ones – but this was the first death among the 47 who had willingly offered themselves from the congregation. At the close Mendelssohn's Funeral March was played. WW1_Casualties_by_Regiment_Letter_R.pdf www.midlothian.gov.uk/ - Affleck, Robert B, was the son of James Affleck and the family home was at Muirpark, Dalkeith, Midlothian. A Second Division Clerk on temporary duty, he passed his civil service exams in January 1913. Robert, a Private in 9th Battalion	-

The Royal Scots, died on 8 May 1915 during the Second Battle of Ypres. He was 22 years old, and is commemorated on a special memorial at New Irish Farm Cemetery where his remains are believed to lie. The cemetery is in the town of Ieper, Belgium, and was enlarged after the armistice as part of a consolidation exercise. It is likely – although we cannot be sure – that Robert’s remains were transferred from a temporary cemetery in nearby St Jean, which was created in May 1915 to cope with the large number of casualties produced by the offensive. New Irish Farm commemorates 4,715 dead. THE SCOTTISH OFFICE, THOSE WHO FELL IN THE GREAT WAR, Compiled by Neil MacLennan www.scotland.gov.uk/Resource/0040/00408215.pdf
Affleck, Robert Bell, The son of Mr. J. Affleck, Muirpark, Dalkeith, was born in 1894, and educated at Dalkeith High School. Thereafter he spent four years at G.W.C. (1906-10), where he excelled in Mathematics. He was an enthusiastic School cricketer, and later Hon. Secy. of Dalkeith Club. In Sept. 1914 he gave up an appointment in the National Health Insurance Commission, and enlisted as a Pte. in the 9th R.S. In Feb. 1915 he went overseas to France. He was killed in Sanctuary Wood, Hooge, and interred there, May 8, 1915.  https://www.gwc.org.uk/default/cache/file/626E626E6309AE556568E527A0921BB0.jpg	GWC

Sergeant John Allan, a joiner by trade, enlisted with the 9th Royal Scots when war broke out. They were the “shock troops” of the army and the only battalion in the regiment to wear kilts. Born in Greenlaw, Berwickshire, in 1887, Allan was “a whole-hearted player” whose family moved to Edinburgh looking for work. He survived The Somme but was caught in crossfire while moving through a wood at Roeux, near Arras, in April 1917. The 30-year old’s body was never found and his name is on the memorial at Faubourg d’Amiens Cemetery. Reserve centre-half. British Legion

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in charge of a Stokes gun. In reply to the S.O.S. signal he fired his gun, under intense shell fire, until his ammunition was exhausted, and then manned the parapet with his detachment and opened rifle fire. He displayed great courage throughout and materially assisted in breaking up the enemy's attack. (21.10.18)' Citations for DCM

Baillie, John Orr John Orr Baillie was born in Bathgate, West Lothian, circa 1895. On the 1901 Census he was living with his parents William and Jessie Baillie at North Couston Farm, Bathgate, West Lothian.  The 1914 edition of the Edinburgh & Leith Post Office Directory shows that his father, William Baillie, was a farmer at Granton Mains, West Granton Road. On the Granton War Memorial his regiment was shown as Lothian and Border Horse. This was a Yeomanry Regiment – a mounted equivalent of the Territorials. Anyone who joined this outfit had to provide his own horse – just the sort of thing that a farmer's son might do. The entry in SDGW indicates that he joined Lothian & Border Horse in 1909. At some stage he transferred to 9th Battalion Royal Scots (an Edinburgh based Territorial Battalion which unlike other units of the Royal Scots, wore the kilt.) Granton History

BANNATYNE 9TH (HIGHLANDERS) BATTALION THE ROYAL SCOTS (LOTHIAN REGIMENT), T.F. School House DOUGLAS ALEXANDER BANNATYNE was the third and youngest son of Mark Bannatyne, a partner of the firm of Bannatyne, Kirkwood &amp; Co., Writers, of Glasgow, and of Kate Broadley his wife, of 15 Windsor Terrace West, Glasgow. He entered the School with a Scholarship in 1891 and left in 1896. In that year he was in the Running VIII, and came in second, after a close finish, in the Crick, for which a new record was established. His scholastic attainments were varied, and, besides the Tait Prize for Divinity, he won prizes for Latin, Greek, French, German and Mathematics. In 1896 he won a Major Exhibition, and went up as a Classical Scholar to Exeter College, Oxford. He obtained a First Class in Classical Moderations and also in the Final Classical School. Afterwards he graduated with distinction in Law, and was for several years Examiner in Conveyancing, at Glasgow University, where his great-grandfather, James Millar, had been Professor of Mathematics, and his great-great-grandfather, John Millar, had been Professor of Law. He became a partner in his father's firm in January, 1905. He took a deep interest in the work of the Scottish Episcopal Church, especially in the east end of Glasgow, where he was largely instrumental in the building of several new mission churches. He had a great influence over lads and young boys,	ww1 - and, as a District Commissioner, did much to further the Boy Scouts movement, of which he was a warm upholder. He devoted many evenings to home-visiting in the east end. He was also interested in the School of Art and other public work in Glasgow. He spent many of his holidays abroad, and on one occasion travelled through a large part of Russia.

He volunteered for service very soon after War broke out in 1914, and trained in the Inns of Court O.T.C. Gazetted to the Royal Scots in March, 1915, he served in Scotland, England, and Ireland, and in April, 1918, was sent to France.

He joined his Battalion in the neighbourhood of Arras, and in July his Division, with other Highland Divisions, was sent to the Soissons-Rheims salient to help the French and American armies at a most critical point in the War. The Division relieved an American Division on July 22nd on the Chaudun plateau, and had a share in the brilliant success of clearing the Oulchy salient on the Ourcq in the last week of July. On July 28th it attacked the village, park and chateau of Buzancy, a position formidably organized by the enemy for defence. The heroism then displayed by the Scottish troops won such admiration amongst their French comrades that General Gassouin immediately raised on the field of battle a commemorative monument constructed with the stones of the ruined chateau of Buzancy, on which was carved a medallion representing a thistle surrounded by roses, with the words

ICI FLEURIRA TOUJOURS

LE GLORIEUX CHARDON D'ÉCOSSE

PARMI LES ROSES DE FRANCE

and, below, the dedication

La 17ème division française à la 15ème division écossaise.

On the following days the Division continued its advance towards the Aisne and the Vesle. Lieutenant Bannatyne was killed in action, nearer the enemy's position than anyone else who fell on the same day, while leading his men to the attack, at Villemontoire, near Soissons, on August 1st, 1918. Age 40.

The actual extent of ground gained in the fight of August 1st was small, but its consequences were far-reaching. Soissons was hurriedly evacuated by the enemy, whose only care was to retreat to the Vesle and the Aisne as rapidly as he could. General Mangin, in thanking the British Divisions for the part they had taken in the advance, referred, in particular, to the action of August 1st. "Dans la journée du 1er août, vous avez enlevé, côte à côte avec vos camarades français, la crête qui domine toute la contrée entre l'Aisne et l'Ourcq et que ses défenseurs avaient l'ordre de tenir coûte que coûte. Ayant échoué dans sa tentative pour la reprendre avec ses dernières réserves, l'ennemi dut battre en retraite, poursuivi, bouscule pendant 12 kilometres."

His Colonel wrote :—

"His death has been a great loss to the Battalion, Officers and men alike having the greatest admiration and respect for his gallantry and manly qualities. He fell leading an attack and as becomes an Officer."

The following extracts are taken from letters written by brother Officers :—

"I found him not only a most capable and trustworthy Officer, but also a friend I esteemed and admired. He never seemed so happy as when he was doing two men's work, and, no matter how strenuous or unpleasant the job might be, he tackled it with the same cheerful zeal. I never once heard him indulge in the soldier's privilege of grumbling, and I count myself fortunate in having known and worked with such a perfect gentleman as your son."

"If there ever was a hero, your brother was one, and I can tell you that his pluck and endless gameness in spite of his years was greatly admired in the Battalion."
 "I can hardly tell you of the place he occupied, not only in our estimation for his quiet, careful work, but in our affections for the ever-ready help he gave, whenever anyone asked him. His was a truly generous nature, always ready to give advice or assistance, however pressed with work he might be himself. His sacrifices were not all made in France, and many of his old friends are better men to-day because of his example."

The Rector of Exeter College, Oxford, wrote :—

"He was the most brilliant and popular Scholar of our College, and intellectually, morally and socially of the best influence in our Society."

Many friends paid their tribute to his abilities, his earnest Christian purpose, his modesty and unselfishness, his delightfully human and attractive personality. The Bishop of Aberdeen and Orkney wrote :—

"He was one of the best of men I have ever met. I regarded him as a saint, without the least self-consciousness or ostentation. I thank God for all his good life and all the bracing influence which his life has exercised."

The Professor of Scottish History in the University of Glasgow said :—

"His friends will not soon forget his beautiful and unselfish character, and I am sure that he will be long remembered in Glasgow by those for whom he worked so strenuously and devotedly. No more beautiful spirit than his has gone from us in all these years of mourning."

On the 1st of August, you carried away, side by side with your French comrades, the ridge which dominates the whole country between the Aisne and the Ourcq, and which its defenders were ordered to hold at all costs. Having failed in its attempt to resume it with its last reserves, the enemy had to retreat, pursued, jostles for 12 kilometers.

Begbie, Alexander, Pte, 9th Royal Scots, born at Abercorn in 1898, was the elder son of Alexander Begbie, a Ploughman, and Mary Findlay Begbie, of 9 The Loan, South Queensferry. His siblings were Hugh, Mary and Allan. After enlisting at South Queensferry, he served initially in 2/10th Royal Scots, being later posted to "A" Company of the 9th Royal Scots. According to the Linlithgow Gazette on 8 September 1916, he was wrongly reported missing during the Battle of the Somme whilst attached to the Royal Scots Fusiliers. He was killed in action on 21 April 1917, age 19, during the Battle of Arras and is commemorated on the Arras Memorial, Pas-de-Calais, France. He was mentioned in articles in the West Lothian Courier on 18 May 1917, in a casualty list covering four columns in The Scotsman on 26 May 1917, and a biographical note and death notices in The Edinburgh Evening News on 16 May 1917 and 20 April 1918. Bell, Frank, Pte 1/9th Royal Scots. 1918, November 3.- On the day previous, the British completed the capture of Valenciennes. The French captured Semuy and the south bank of the Canal des Ardennes from Semuy to Neuville. The Argonne Forest was completely cleared of the enemy. The Americans advanced rapidly in the Meuse sector. On the Sunday on which Frank Bell died the sailors of the German Fleet were mutinying. The Belgians advanced south of the Dutch frontier and captured Baasvelde and Steydinge. Between the Upper Aisne and the Meuse the Americans and French	-

advanced rapidly on a front of thirty miles. On the day following, revolution began to spread in Germany, and a great British and French offensive began on a thirty-mile front from east of the Scheldt at Valenciennes to Guise on the Oise. Private Frank Bell was the son of Mr and Mrs R. Bell, Hawick. Before going out to France for the last time, in 1918, he was transferred to the 1/9th Battalion of The Royal Scots. On the 29th October 1918 he was badly gassed. He was sent to No. 15 Clearing Station, where he died on the 3rd November. He was buried in the Military Cemetery at Etaples. Frank's death was a terrible blow to his parents, taking place as it did so near the close of the war. His letters home were always bright and cheerful. He was 25 years of age, and was employed as a gamekeeper at Spitalhaugh when war broke out.

On or around the 9th April TWBC mentions a Captain or Acting Major Lyndsey being in command. He then adds that he is next in line of seniority. At the time TWBC was commanding Officer of C Company. A couple of days later he was hospitalised then on to London for further treatment. He was released on 23rd and spent the night at the theatre with Moncrieff and thereafter to Moncrieff's London residence. Next day Euston to Waverley. TWBC does say he "was all done in" on the 10th hence hospital care. He seems to have been well looked after bearing in mind he was not "in" on the assault. He seems to have been involved in the pre- organising of the assault and thereafter with HQ. Records of TW Bennet Clark Great War Forum ? BENTINCK, George Alexander. 2nd Lieut. The Royal Scots – awarded M.C. ‘When the leading battalion was held up by machine gun fire, he brought up a gun into the front line and kept it in action under heavy shell fire. Later, on the same day, he was instrumental in bringing in about 24 wounded officers and men under heavy fire. Next day he again distinguished himself, and was wounded.’ Lieut. Bentinck joined the Highlanders, The Royal Scots, about five years ago, and at once started to take a very keen interest in all the activities of the battalion. Particularly was this the case in a side of the training which has now become of paramount importance, namely bayonet fighting. Lieut. Bentinck was second to none, and represented the Battalion in many a ‘gory’ contest. It was not long before he was promoted to Lance Corporal, and with this rank he mobilised on the historic August 4th. As vacancies occurred he became Corporal and Sergeant in turn, and on February 11th, 1915, was given a commission as a Platoon Commander. Lieut. Bentinck was well liked by all under him, who looked to him for help and guidance in the most trying situations. In December, 1915, the now all-important Machine Gun Corps was started, and a call was made for officers. Lieut. Bentinck at once offered himself for this service, and it was whilst serving with this corps that he did excellent service which gained him his great distinction. His siblings were Alice and Fanny. His military service appeal was refused on 18 April 1916 and he enlisted at Edinburgh. At the time of his enlistment he was employed as a tailor by B. Marks and Coy., 7 Hanover Street, Edinburgh. He died of wounds on 29 March 1917, age 25, and is commemorated in the Arras Memorial, Pas de Calais, France. On Monday, 14 May 1917, The Scotsman reported, "Missing. Royal Scots - Berman, 352504, M. (Edinburgh). In a minute dated 3rd December, 1878, we learn that the Rev. W. W. Beveridge, then a student at Glasgow University, and secretary of the University Football Club, desired the use of Hampden Park for the Inter-University matches between Glasgow and Cambridge and Oxford Universities respectively, and, after consideration, it was agreed to give the ground for the match on 23rd December with Oxford only. W. W. Beveridge, an Ayr Academy product, became, about this period, a great sprinter, and has been clocked to do even time—10 seconds—for the 100 yards. He is now the much-respected minister of a Port-Glasgow congregation, and has done good service during the war as an army chaplain. News has just been received by his parents, who reside in Spylaw Road, Colinton, of the death in action last Saturday of Sergeant W.M. Black, "C" Company, 9th Royal Scots. Sergeant Black was employed in the office of the City Chamberlain, Edinburgh was well known in athletic circles. His father, Colour-Sergeant Black, is acting as a drill instructor to troops in this country, while his brother is in the Navy.

The following letter has been received by the sergeant's mother from Colonel Blair:-

"Dear Mrs Black,- I deeply regret having to send you the very sad news of the death of your son, Sergeant W.M. Black, of C Company, and I sincerely trust you may be given strength and courage to bear it. Poor fellow, he was killed in the trenches this morning, and we are all deeply distressed. He was a general favourite with us all, and a very reliable and competent non-commissioned officer – one of our best – and his death is a very great loss to his Company and to the Battalion.

"I was not in the trench at the time, but I am informed he was killed instantaneously by a bullet, and suffered little or no pain. His body was brought back at nightfall by some of his comrades, and he was buried at midnight in the little cemetery here for British soldiers, where three other poor fellows from the 9th rest. A cross will be put up immediately, and every care taken of the grave. Your brave son's death has affected me deeply. I knew him well, and had always taken a special interest in him owing to his keenness on football, and I recall with gratitude the great help he was when we had our 'indoor football' competitions in our drill hall at East Claremont Street a year ago last winter. I, too, know what it means to lose a son in this terrible war, and my sympathy for you in your great grief is heartfelt.- I am, yours very sincerely, A.S. Blair, Lieut.-Col. Blair, Patrick Alexander Capt – obituary

The Society has sustained a great loss in the death in action on 23 Apr of its Acting Treasurer. Capt Blair born 1879, youngest son of the late Alexander Blair, Sheriff of the Lothians and Peebles, and was a Chartered Accountant, being the senior partner of the firm of Macandrew and Blair, CA, Edinburgh. He held a commission in the Territorials for several years before the war, was called up in August 1914 and has been continuously on active service abroad since Feb 15. He was mentioned in despatches. Capt Blair was appointed Treasurer of the Society at a Meeting of Council held 21 Oct 1909 and during this period has most carefully and successfully superintended the finances. His amiable character, his devotion to duty, and his gallant death will ensure his name being remembered and respected by all who knew him.

BROCKIE, J, Private, '353401', 1st/9th Bn., 22, 6/Aug/1918, France, SON OF ALEXANDER AND MARGARET BROCKIE, OF 10, CHURCH ST., MAXWELLTOWN, DUMFRIESSHIRE. BORN AT PEEBLES.	CWGC
Brockie, John Kerr 1918—August 5. ALEXANDER BROCKIE, Maxwelltown, Dumfries, had four sons in the Great War. These were James, a private in the Royal Scots; Alexander, also in the Royal Scots; William, in the Black Watch, attached to the Royal Flying Corps; and Private JOHN KERR BROCKIE, in the Royal Scots. The eldest brother, James, was the first to give his life, in November 1917; the next two brothers were wounded; and John, the youngest of all, was called upon, like the eldest, to die for his country. John Brockie enlisted in the early days of the war, and after receiving training, was drafted to France. Some time later he was discharged, and went to Maxwelltown, to reside with his father, where he was employed in Rosefield Mills. He was eventually recalled to the Colours, and had been fighting in France for some time previous to his being fatally wounded. This happened on the 1st of August 1918, while in action, and on the 5th of August he passed away, at the age of 21 years. He and his brothers were members of a large clan of Brockies belonging to Peebles, who did not spare themselves, either in wounds or in life itself, for the sake of their country.  Private JOHN K.  'John Brown, the son of John Brown of Edinburgh, and grandson of Dr. John Brown, the author of Horae Subsecivae, was born on August 30, 1891. He was educated at Merchiston Castle and gave promise of great ability, especially in his knowledge of literature, and his writing of English. Elected to a scholarship at Brasenose, he did not feel justified in taking the emoluments, and came as a Commoner to Balliol in 1910. He read Literae Humaniores, and his Ancient History tutor spoke of his work as the best of the year. But he did not adjust

himself easily to a fixed curriculum: "I am never happy," he wrote later, "unless I feel I am doing something individual, unique, of my own thinking, my own thoughts – a sort of intellectual gipsy. Of course this is why I was no use at Oxford." In reality his independence meant a great deal of development. He read poetry voraciously and knew much by heart, wrote verse himself with true poetry in it, and was passionately fond of music. His letters, which his father has published, and the essays included with them reveal a rare power of expression and criticism, which was hardly realized except by those who knew him well. Meanwhile he played Rugby football enthusiastically for the College, and in his vacations tramped in his beloved Highlands. Early in 1914 he enlisted as a private in the 9th Royal Scots, and in February 15 went out to Belgium. Soon after the second battle of Ypres he was severely wounded in the jaw and was for some while in hospital at Leicester. In August he was given a commission in the 6th Battalion of the Seaforth Highlanders and was with them some months at home, at Elgin and Ripon, In June 1916 he went to France again, but was invalided home in August. In January 1917 he was in France once more, attached to the 7th Seaforths: shortly after the battle of Arras he was awarded the Military Cross "for conspicuous gallantry and resource while defending an isolated post with two platoons." Returning in March 1918 he was attached to the 19th Seaforths – regretting that he could not join his old battalion - and was killed in action near Wytschaete on April 11, shot by a sniper while holding a trench against the German advance. John Brown was a fine character, and the war seemed to bring out and combine his qualities – a fearless courage, a fine intelligence, a power of initiative and a deep humanity.' Balliol College War Memorial Book Brown, John: b. Aug. 30, 1891; s. of John Brown, of Edinburgh. Educ. Merchiston Castle; Balliol 1910- (C.B., A.W.P.C, A.D.L.); Rugby XV. Union Soc. Address: 7 Greenhill Place, Edinburgh. Balliol College Register Left Oxford summer 1914 with third class degree in Classical Moderations and Litterae Humaniores. Enlisted in Ninth. At first he seemed satisfied, writing to his parents in February 1915 that his life was 'extraordinary dull, but healthy.' He changed his mind however and by 31 March was asking his father about the chances of a commission. For further information, see: Moore-Bick, Christopher, 'Playing the Game: The British Junior Infantry Officer on the Western Front 1914-18', 2011 'Though "Jock" Brown's war letters give exceedingly vivid and convincing pictures of trench warfare, we shall not dwell upon these, but rather upon the essays written for the Master of Balliol and also the literary letters from Balliol written to his father and mother. These letters often contain very brilliant and also very sound literary criticism.' The Spectator 18 June 1921

Brown, Joseph, Pte 1918, August 1. MRS JOSEPH BROWN, Polton Cottages, Polton, received official intimation that her husband, Private JOSEPH BROWN, Royal Scots, had been killed in action in France on 1st August 1918. Private Brown, who was 34 years of age, previous to enlisting in the 2/8th Royal Scots, in September 1914, was employed in March Street Mills, Peebles. He went out to France in February 1917. He was wounded and invalided home, but returned to the front in the early summer of 1918. He was survived by his wife and three boys, aged 9, 8, and 6 years at the time of their father's death. He was the third son of Andrew Brown, 13a Rosetta Road, Peebles. Other three brothers were on service—Andrew, a private in the 1/8th Royal Scots; James, a private in the Royal Scots; and Alexander, a private in the Egyptian Camel Corps. The Chaplain of the 9th Royal Scots wrote Mrs Brown as follows: "Your husband was killed on the 1st August in an attack which cost this Battalion many casualties, for all of them played a very gallant part that day. We all lament his death very much. I wish to assure you of the deep sympathy of all his comrades in the Battalion; we feel very much for you and your little ones in your loneliness and grief. I trust that God Himself will sustain you; and enable you to bear up under this burden of sorrow. May the words of our Saviour bring some comfort and strength to your heart—'I am the resurrection and the life. He that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.' And may you be upheld, for your own sake and the sake of your little ones, with the hope of meeting your husband again in the life beyond, where no sore parting shall come."  Gunn, Dr., 'The Book of Remembrance for Tweeddale', Vol. II, 1920 - Brown, Joseph, Pte 335177 b. Brown, Thomas, L/Cpl (Innerleithen) 9th Royal Scots. 6th August 1917. Mrs Brown, Miller Street, Innerleithen, received official intimation that her husband, Lance-Corporal Thomas Brown, Royal Scots, died of wounds on Monday, 6th August, 1917. He was 23 years of age, and was mobilised as a Territorial at the outbreak of hostilities. He was in the Gretna Disaster, and among other injuries lost the sight of an eye (the right). He left for France in January, and was slightly wounded in April. He was employed as a mechanical engineer in Carberry Pit, Musselburgh. Interred in Mendingham British Cemetery on August 5. The Germans regained a footing in Hollebeke, but were driven out that day and the next.  L/Cpl THOMAS BROWN, INNERLEITHEN. Gunn, Dr., 'The Book of Remembrance for Tweeddale', 1925  https://archive.org/stream/bookofremembranc1925gunn/bookofremembranc1925gunn_djvu.txt  http://www.ypres-salient.com/uk--ireland-br2.html	-

Brown, Tom W., Pte (Traquair) 6th December 1916. Killed in action on 6th December, 1916, Private T. W. Brown, Royal Scots, beloved son of Mr and Mrs E. Brown, Traquair. Blessed are the pure in heart. A feeling of deep regret and sorrow was expressed all over the parish of Traquair when it became known that Mr Edward Brown, Kirkhouse, had received the sad news that his second son, Tom, had been killed in France on the 6th December, 1916. No young man in the district was more popular or more highly respected. Before enlisting in the Royal Scots, his duties brought him into close contact with very many of the parish, as for nine years he had been rural postman, his round including such widely separated places as Cardrona and Glenlude. He had a cheery word for everyone, and an obligation had only to be asked to be conferred. He could be freed from his duties only after the Christmas postal pressure of the year, so that less than 12 months' service was all that he was privileged to give to his country's cause. He received his military training in one of the Border towns, and on his few visits home, many remarked on his fine soldierly bearing. He had been in France for nine months. On 2nd December he wrote that another Traquair lad, Private Hugh Wilson, of the same regiment, had been killed. And before the letter was received, he himself had met with a similar fate from the bursting of a shell. 12 have now been killed from Traquair. From D. C. McEwen, Second-Lieutenant — The death of your son is a great loss to the company, and the battalion, as he was a good soldier and an exceedingly fine fellow, and his loss is deeply regretted by us all. I was his platoon commander, and personally deeply regret his loss. From a chum in France — Tom was a fine lad in every way, generous, cheery, and kind-hearted. I may say that he was known as such, not only by his, but by all who knew him. From Mr Easton, Postmaster, Innerleithen— What a loss he will be here. I was looking forward to the time when he would be back to duty. He was always cheery and obliging, and ready to do his utmost in the performance of his duties, without a grumble even when the weather was at its worst. From Mr McIntosh, Traquair, his school teacher — We shall long remember Tom's happy and cheery way, and his unfailing obliging spirit.	-

Bruce, Robert, Pte 1918, April 12.—There was strong enemy pressure on this day (Friday), especially at Bailleul and Wulverghem. The enemy penetrated Neuve Eglise and Messines. In Apremonet Forest the Americans and French repulsed continued attacks. 110 German Divisions were engaged until now. The British withdrew from Messines Ridge. Private Robert Bruce was born in 1892, in Stirling, his father being Mr H. E. Bruce, Cambuskenneth Abbey there. He served his apprenticeship as a gardener with Mr Edmond Pullar, Bridge of Allan, and before enlisting he was with the late Mrs Woddrop, Garvald House, Dolphinton. In June 1915 he joined the 9th Royal Scots, and after being trained at Peebles and then at Selkirk, he went to France, early in January 1916, with the "Dandy Ninth." He went through the Somme in July onwards, and was at the taking of Beaumont Hamel in November. He was also through the Arras battle of April 1917. He took septic poisoning in the knee in May of that year, and was in hospital for quite a long spell in France and in England. On his recovery he was transferred to the 2nd Battalion of the Royal Scots, and was sent to France in December. He was posted missing on 12th April 1918, amidst that ever memorable British stand which defeated the last grim German effort.	-

Private Bruce had not been very long resident at Garvald before his soldier days, but he had made some firm friends, and had gained the esteem of all who knew him. These facts speak for themselves. He was quiet, but very true. He was a member of Kirkurd United Free Church, and on more than one occasion during the months of suspense when he was missing. Rev. D. C. Wiseman, M.A., made appreciative reference to him; expressing the hope that he would return with the prisoners and also the congregation's sympathy with his parents in Stirling. But the prisoners returned, and Robert Bruce was not amongst them. Doubtless he died on 12th April — "all his wounds in front"—giving his quiet, strong, and promising life for the country and the cause that were dear to him. " He was one of the best of sons, and if he got his father and mother right he was contented—but only so. And if he had been spared he would have been an equally devoted husband. One in Scotland was waiting for his 'leave' to be married when the storm of March broke out—and then the leave stopped—and the suspense began, and word came that he was missing. And thus war's tragedy works out and makes desolation, and there are those left that mourn."  Private ROBERT BRUCE. Gunn, Dr., 'The Book of Remembrance for Tweeddale', Vol. III, 192  Bruce, Robert, Pte., Royal Scots, Cambuskenneth. Bryden, John L/Cpl Home on Furlough. During the past week many Armadale warriors have been home for a well-deserved rest from the fighting line. L/Cpl John Bryden, son of Mr Jas. A. Bryden, for many years a draper in Armadale with shops in west Main Street and South Street, returned last week after a severe year's fighting in France where he has been twice badly wounded on the head. A year ago he was a conspicuous figure at Woodend Red Cross social meeting in his kilt, and curiously enough he was able to attend the same function on Friday. He was twice hit in the head and was laid out for a considerable time before he was picked up unconscious with a bullet in his head, which has been successfully extricated, but he has been certified unfit for other than home service. He returned to his home in Edinburgh on Tuesday to report himself, and expects to be sent to Dundee. Linlithgowshire Gazette 26.11.15	-

Victor George Anderson Bush was the youngest son of the late Admiral Bush, and of Jean I. Bush, of 21, Lauderdale St., Edinburgh, and was born at Bangkok, Siam in 1893. He was a pupil at George Watson's College from 1907-1911 and gained the Convener's Medal for Drawing. He played for the 2nd XV.

On the outbreak of war, he enlisted in the 9th Royal Scots. In a few weeks he obtained a commission in the Highland Light Infantry and served with that regiment in France until 1916. He transferred to the Royal Flying Corps, and was made Fighting Instructor at the Central Flying School, Wiltshire. He was soon afterwards promoted to Captain.

Later he was sent to Ayr to train inexperienced pilots, and it was while flying there, during an exercise on 8th February 1918, that he was killed in a flying accident at the age of 25.

Capt V G A Bush, a native of Edinburgh aged 25, was serving at No 1 School of Air Fighting (1 S of AF) RFC at Ayr, when he was killed in an accident while flying Sopwith Camel B5565 on 8 February 1918. The aeroplane broke up in the air and crashed.

Victor was a 2nd Lieutenant in the 10/11th Battalion, Highland Light Infantry, before transferring to the RFC and reaching the rank of Captain.

The aircraft came down at Kincaidston Farm after the wing broke off.

Galashiels War Memorial.

His father is listed as Admiral John Bush of Bangkok. He was a British merchant Captain who was employed by the Thai King to run the port of Bangkok, manage the ship repair facilities (the docks he founded still existed) and also arrange and captain the Kings voyages. He was a prominent ex-pat in Bangkok and hosted Ann Leonowens (the King and I story) when she arrived in Bangkok. His first wife, from the UK, died in Bangkok so a he married a local lady; Meh Plien. He then had two children with Meh; Victoria and Victor. So Victor was half Thai - perhaps the only one in the RFC. He joined the Royal Scots (9th Btn) and served as a Private before being commissioned in the HLI. He attended George Watsons College in Edinburgh and played Rugby in the 2nd XV and won a prize for Drawing. His death certificate states that he suffered multiple injuries in the crash, including severe head injuries and he died instantly.

John Bush did exist; an English merchant seaman who arrived in Bangkok in 1857 with his wife and was encouraged by the British Consul to apply for the position of Bangkok Harbour Master. He served in this role until the late 1800's when one of his sons took over. He also ran the Bangkok Dry Docks and Captained the King of Thailand's ship when he made longer voyages. He had 4 children with his wife from England but his first wife Elizabeth (nee Lawson) died in 1866. John Bush then married Mae Plian and in the early 1890's had two further children Victor and Victoria. John Bush died in the early 1900's and sometime shortly after Victor came to the UK, presumably to study and the 1911 census finds him at a boarding school in Edinburgh.

Victor studied at George Watsons College in Edinburgh where he won prizes for drawing and played rugby in the 2nd fifteen he finished in 1911 and started a university course. However his studies were interrupted by the announcement of war and on the 29th of August 1914 he enlisted in the 9th Battalion of the Royal Scots but along with other OTC Cadets was quickly commissioned and joined the 10th Battalion of the Highland Light Infantry in November 1914 as a 2nd Lieutenant. He arrived in France on the 8th of August 1915. He presumably fought with the HLI at Loos on the 25th of September 1915 where they suffered considerable losses. Perhaps as a result of this he applied and was accepted into the RFC qualifying as an observer in early 1916 and as a pilot by August. By the 10th of August he was back in France serving with 1st Squadron, flying Morane Parasol's and later Nieuport Scouts. He got some home leave in December and married Jean McLeod, he gave her family address when he joined up so he must have known her for some time. They married in St Davids Church, Viewforth in Edinburgh on the 16th of December. His sister Victoria, now in the UK, was one of the witnesses. On his return to France he was involved in bringing down at least one enemy plane a Roland C on the 4th of March 1917. Shortly afterwards he returned to the UK to serve as a flying instructor He served at a number of flying schools and the 26th Reserve Squadron before he was posted in late.. August 1917 to the No.1 School of Aerial Fighting at Turnberry near Ayr. During this period he was Gazetted a Captain. It appears he lived in Ayr at 5a Miller Street with his wife. He died from head injuries he received in a crash on the 8th of February. One of the wings of the Sopwith Camel he was flying failed and as a result he was unable to control the aircraft and it crashed on the outskirts of Ayr at a place called Kincaidston farm (now a housing estate). He was buried in Edinburgh in Merchiston Cemetery. As well as the Galashiels War Memorial he is remembered on the memorial at Gorgie in Edinburgh and on the memorial in St Michaels Church in Edinburgh. Why is he remembered in Galashiels? – None of the official records finds him in Galashiels but an article in the “Southern Reporter” in September 1917 recording his promotion to Captain notes that he was “formerly of Galashiels”. In addition according to the 1911 census his wife's younger brother was born in Galashiels. So he and his wife had some connection to the town and thus a place on the War Memorial. Captain V G A Bush is an interesting person, possibly the only British Officer with Thai Origins? Does anybody know of any others His sister went on to serve in the WRAF and married an American serviceman in Montrose in July 1918 and evidently emigrated to the United States. The last record I have found of his wife is from 1920 when she was living in Pewsey Wiltshire when she applied for her late husband's medals But what of the connection to the King and I? When Anna Leonowens, the “I” in the “King and I” first arrived in Bangkok she was met by John Bush, then known as a Captain and stayed at his house until the King arranged accommodation for her. Write up on GWF blog by gmac101 - Capt, d.8.2.18, RFC and General List, age 25, Edinburgh (North Merchiston) Cemetery. His first application was rejected on health grounds and he worked hard to get fit for a second medical, joining in 1915, at the end of the year he was in the trenches. ‘Resisting all exhortations from friends and superior officers to apply for a commission.’ Eventually he succumbed and transferred to 8th A&amp;S Highers as 2nd Lt at the beginning of 1918. As a pte ‘there could not have been many of his fellow soldiers who had their tailor make up a private’s uniform in quality cloth to replace the scratchy standard issue.’ Sketches from army life sold profitably for the benefit of the Red Cross, and then reproduced in 1916 as a book, Jack and Tommy, by London publisher Grant Richards. Billcliffe, Roger, 'The Scottish Colourists', 1989

'Cadell spent much of the war in the trenches in France, serving as a private in the Royal Scots Guards [sic] before taking a commission as a second lieutenant in the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders in 1918. Before his posting in 1915 he produced illustrations for a book, Jack and Tommy... on his return to Scotland in 1919...' Timeline: '1914 Cadell's application to join army refused on health grounds. 1915 Cadell joins Royal Scots Guards. Produces drawings in army life which are exhibited in Edinburgh at The Society of Eight and published in 1916 as the book Jack and Tommy. 1918 Cadell made second lieutenant, 11th Battalion Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders; wounded in France in July. 1919 Cadell returns from France to Scotland; resumes visits to Iona.'

Long, Philip, and Cumming, Elizabeth, 'The Scottish Colourists', 2000

Jack and Tommy published mid-summer 1916, 20 drawings, sold for five shillings Cadell was turned down for army having 'smokers heart' problems (he smoked a pipe). Determined to join he worked on a farm in Dumfries for a few months to improve his fitness. Passed second medical joined R.S. as an ordinary soldier - posted to the Dandy Ninths. He arranged to have his standard issue uniform replaced with one made for him by his Edinburgh tailor of finer quality material. Not posted to French front until late 1915. Before leaving he did a series of drawings of army life that were the inspiration for his 'Jack and Tommy' work. For most of 1916 he was in France - occasionally returning on leave for a few days. Reputed to have dined regularly in the Savoy wearing his blood stained kilt. Wrote letters to his sister Jean - and to Peplow who he told about the horrors of life at the Front. Sometime in 1917 was stationed at Ripon for a military training course. He was persuaded to take a commission in early 1918 and appointed 2nd Lt. in the 11th Bn A.S.H and returned to the Front in April. Wounded in July and sent to recover near Rouen. In the closing weeks of war his health had recovered enough to take responsibility away from the Front as an officer in charge of German POWs. Returned from France in Spring of 1919.

Campbell, Walter Mellish, L/Cpl Enlisted 9 th RS, transferred King's Own Scottish Borderers 1917—October 27. MR AND MRS DUNCAN CAMPBELL, Hydro Cottage, Soonhope, Peebles were informed officially that their eldest son, Lance-Corporal WALTER M. CAMPBELL, King's Own Scottish Borderers, had been killed in France on 27th October 1917. He was born in Ardrishaig, Argyllshire, in 1896, and was therefore 21 years of age when he fell. He was educated at Peebles Burgh and County High School, and went in for all outdoor sports. He had a kind and loving nature, scorning to do a mean action, and was a general favourite with all who knew him. He was a law clerk with Blackwood & Smith, W.S., Peebles, previous to enlisting in the 9th Royal Scots. When he was drafted to France he was transferred to the King's Own Scottish Borderers, and served with them till he was killed. His body was buried at Zonnebeke. [continues]	-

Campbell, William, Lt, MC, 9th Royal Scots, born at Edinburgh in 1895, was the only son of Bruce Campbell, a Bank Clerk, and Emeline Campbell, of 10 Greenbank Place, Morningside, Edinburgh. He was the grandson of William Campbell, Clerk of Works on Dalmeny Estate, and Charlotte Campbell, of Long Green Cottages, Dalmeny Park. His siblings were Charlotte and Mary. Lieutenant Campbell was educated at George Watson's College from 1910 to 1912 where he was a member of the Officer Training Corps and was an outstanding golfer. He became an apprentice in the Scottish Widow's Fund, training as an Actuary, before enlisting in the 9th Royal Scots during 1913. He	-

was commissioned as a Second Lieutenant in July 1915 and served in "D" Company entering France as a theatre of war during March 1916. The Military Cross was awarded for conspicuous gallantry and skill in the attack on Roeux on the banks of the Yser Canal. "He led his platoon with great bravery, picking up a Lewis gun and inflicting heavy casualties with it on the enemy, and although wounded he remained in command until relieved the following day." He was killed in action on 31 July 1917, age 22, and is buried in Essex Farm Cemetery, Ieper, West Vlaanderen, Belgium. He was mentioned in a biographical note in The Scotsman on 6 August 1917, and the Watsonian War Record 1914-1918. He is also remembered on the Cramond Kirk Memorial. Dalmeny War Memorial
Campbell, William, The only son of Mr. Bruce Campbell, Edin., was born in 1895, and attended G.W.C. 1910-12. At School he was a member of the O.T.C., and a golfer of repute. He entered the office of the Scottish Widows' Fund with the intention of qualifying as an actuary, and had made considerable progress in his studies, when, as a Pte. in the 9th R.S., he was mobilised with his Bn. in Aug. 1914. He had attained the rank of L/Cpl. when he was given a commission in the Bn. Crossing to France early in 1916, he was thrice wounded, and was awarded the M.C. for gallantry in the attack on Roeux, Apr. 23, 1917. He fell in action on July 13, 1917, on the banks of the Yser Canal, and is interred in the Military Cemetery at Essex Farm, Boesinghe, N.E. Ypres.  https://www.gwc.org.uk/default/cache/file/166B9B425720F61178941D601242563F.jpg -  http://www.ypres-salient.com/uk--ireland101.html	GWC

‘But one of the outcomes was that Angus joined the Royal Scots as a piper, and in fact he was a piper already and it did him no harm at all. I have lots of lovely photographs of him in his uniform along with his chums, as you would say in those days. So he went to France and played the pipes, and I even fairly recently contacted a very, very old soldier from the same regiment and he could actually remember marching to the pipes as the drafts of men marched up and down behind the lines, and Angus would have been one of the pipers at that time. But Angus became ill and was sent back home and then he was called back again when the war was getting even more difficult and eventually he was wounded and came out of the war at the end of it. And he did not have a good life after that, his health suffered a lot, he became relatively disabled, although he could still play the pipes and did so for quite a long time. Whereas Kenneth [his brother] had, if you like, a relatively good war, Angus had a relatively bad war and that was the way things were. But I have Angus’s pipes and I still play them.’ Prof Roderick Cannon regarding his uncle, Angus Cannon The Piping Centre interview

Issued Boxing Day 1914. By 13 January 1915, John, a 20 year-old butcher, had formally enlisted in the Army and went on to serve in the 9th Battalion, Royal Scots Regiment, then in the 12th Machine Gun Corps. Leaving his parents, George and Mary Clapperton and their Dalmeny Street home behind him. After three years stationed in Kilmarnock and Grantham, Private John Warnock Clapperton was sent on active service to France, where he was badly wounded and left with no option but to have his right arm amputated in the field hospital. In February 1919 John Warnock Clapperton was discharged from both the Edinburgh War Hospital at Bangour and the Armed Forces. NEN - [Serial No 3010 looks good for attestation 9RS 7 or 13.1.15 from sequence]

The 20-year-old butcher – who served in the 9th Battalion of the Royal Scots Regiment and then later the 12th Machine Gun Corps – was initially stationed in Kilmarnock and Grantham, before being drafted to the front line in France. It was there that he sustained horrific injuries in battle, leaving desperate field surgeons with no choice but to amputate his right arm. But the devastating wounds may have saved his life, preventing him from completing his duties overseas and forcing his return to Britain. There, he underwent further treatment at a hospital in Reading and later back in Edinburgh. Eventually, John returned to set up home in Leith, marrying Catherine Martin in 1941. He died in 1966, aged 71.	-

Items 6-16 cover the Great War letters and papers. 21 items. About half the collection consists of family correspondence and official documents relating to the service of Private John Warnock Clapperton of the 9th Royal Scots Regiment, 12th Machine Gun Corps, in the First World War from January 1915 to February 1919. (On some envelopes he is designated 'Lance Corporal'). First stationed at Kilmarnock, he was later transferred to Belton Park Camp, Grantham, and then, in March 1918, to France where he was on active service for a short time before he was wounded. Following an operation to amputate his right arm in the field hospital he was brought back to hospital in Reading, where he remained until he was transferred to the Edinburgh War Hospital at Bangour. He was discharged from hospital and the armed forces on the same day. This collection of papers relating to the Clapperton family of 63 Dalmeny Street, Leith, (George and Mary, nee Warnock, and their twin sons, George and John Warnock), was gifted to NAS by Mrs Richards, Edinburgh, in June 1999. James Clark was born 2nd January 1859 in Pollockshields, Renfrewshire. He was the son of James Clark (1831-1910) and Jane Clark (1837-1868)(née Smith) of Chapel House, Paisley Abbey, Paisley, Renfrewshire. James studied at a Lycée in Pau, France and then at the Grammar School in Paisley.

In 1876 James came to the University of Glasgow to study for an MA. He was a successful student and won prizes in: Logic, Mathematics, English Literature and Humanity. He graduated MA in 1881.

Following his graduation, James went to the University of Edinburgh to study Law and graduated LLB in 1884. He became a prominent member of the legal community in Edinburgh and was a member of the Faculty of Advocates and became a member of the King's Counsel in 1883. James was a Deputy Lieutenant of the City of Edinburgh and a chairman of the Edinburgh School Board. In 1911 he was made Companion of the Order of the Bath (CB) (Civil).

James was married to Norah Kathleen of Ravelston, Blackhall.

Prior to the outbreak of war James had been involved in the Royal Company of Archers. He was present for the creation of the 9th Royal Scots Battalion and was Colonel of it 1904-1912. On the outset of war he went to France, commanding the 9th Argyll And Sutherland Highlanders. He was killed in action at Hooge, near Ypres on 10th May 1915, aged 56.

As a prominent member of the community Lieutenant Colonel James Clark is remembered on several memorials. He is buried in the Brandhoek Military Cemetery, Belgium and is on the Rolls of Honour for both the University of Glasgow and the University of Edinburgh. His former school, Paisley Grammar, remembers him and he can also be found on the memorial at the Faculty of Advocates. Perhaps the most striking memorial to his life is that the Edinburgh School Board named a school in his honour.

The Edinburgh School Board decided that another elementary school was needed in the area and they purchased the site. To be named King's Park School, the building was completed in 1915 but by then, of course, the First World War was in progress and the military took over the building until late 1918. It was only then, that the first pupils were enrolled.

Lt. Col. James Clark, CB KC, Deputy Lieutenant of the City and chairman of the board was 55 years old in 1914, but that didn't stop him shooting off to France at once to command the 9th Battalion of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders. In May 1915, the board received the sad news that he had been killed in action, and at a special meeting it was decided to honour his memory by changing the name of the school to James Clark School. ... Closed in 1972.

Clark, James 1859-1915 Admitted to Faculty Dec 1883. Father: thread manufacturer Educ. Paisley Grammar School, Lycee, Pau, Glasgow University  At the age of 56, James Clark would have been perfectly entitled to take up a desk job on the outbreak of war, but instead he was killed in action while leading his battalion in action, in a "grim and victorious charge".

Clark was born in Paisley in 1859, a scion of the famous Clark thread dynasty. He came from the same family as Alan Clark, MP and diarist. He was educated at Paisley Grammar School and the Pau Lycee in south west France. The family home was the substantial Chapel House, Paisley Abbey where he continued to stay when he studied for his MA at Glasgow University; there he was awarded prizes in Logic, Maths, English Literature and Humanity, and clearly a glittering career beckoned.

Like many of his fellow Advocates, Clark was strongly involved in the military from an early age. At the age of 17 he joined the 5th Gordon Highlanders as a Private; later he joined the Royal Scots (his battalion was in due course numbered 9th Royal Scots) and between 1900 and 1912 he was promoted from Captain to Lieutenant-Colonel, and by the time he “retired” he commanded the battalion. His retirement was brief, as he was brought off the reserve list in September 1914.

Clark was admitted to Faculty in 1883, and built a solid practice. He took silk in 1908. The Scots Law Times stated rather cryptically that “the position which he attained in his profession was not perhaps that which he saw before him in the heyday of his hopes” Perhaps he had his eyes on an appointment on the Bench. He was appointed Companion of the Bath, and was a member of the Royal Company of Archers.

However, the main part of his life work lay outside the law. He was a deputy lieutenant of the City of Edinburgh, and Chairman of the Edinburgh School Board. One of the schools he helped to see established was King’s Park School, Holyrood. When the School Board heard of his death they held a special meeting and resolved to change the name of the new school to James Clark School; and it continued with this name until it closed in 1972. The building is now converted into flats.

At the time he was brought off the reserve list, Clark was leading a comfortable life at 10 Drumsheugh Gardens, Edinburgh, now the offices of the Open University. His wife Norah, also a Clark from Paisley, was in charge of a household of four resident servants.

The 9th Argylls were raised in Dunbartonshire, not far from Clark’s Paisley homeland. Like most of the Scottish territorial regiments, they were on their summer camp when war was declared, in Kintyre. They subsequently trained in Bedford before landing in France on 20th February 1915, where they fought with the 81st Brigade in the 27th Division. A poignant photograph shows the Officers posing amid the ruins of Ypres in April 1915.

Their experience in Flanders was particularly bloody. On the 10th May 1915, they were occupying trenches in Zouave Wood, near Hooze, close to the bitterly contested Ypres/Menin road. After a day’s successful, but costly, fighting, they saw a detachment of what looked like Cameron Highlanders advancing towards them. They held their fire until, too late, they realised the troops were in fact Germans wearing kilts of fallen Camerons. In the resulting confusion, Clark personally led his men in a charge and lost his life. According to “Deeds That Thrill the Empire” he was “their gallant and much loved Commander”.

The Scotsman of 17th May 1915 carried a long article about the fatal charge, headlined “How Colonel James Clark Fell”. A letter quoted at length from one of his men stated “ Oh, if the Dunbartonshire folks could only have seen their county regiment in this charge they would have been prouder of them than ever. The charge took place at two o’clock in the afternoon in broad daylight. Up the boys went in skirmishing order while all the time the shells were bursting through them. It was

indeed a gallant charge. Many a brave lad fell, but that did not daunt the boys from Dunbartonshire. The Huns did not wait to face them, but took to their heels when they saw the "kilties" coming on with the bayonet. Our dear old Commanding Officer, Lt.Col. James Clark, was killed in this fight. He died at his post leading us on. He was encouraging the men on when he was hit by a shell. He was greatly beloved by them all, and they all mourned his loss." The Scots Law Times was fulsome in its praise, noting a fitting, if untimely, end to a life of unfaltering devotion to duty. The mention of his strong, manly nature, his scorn of delights and laborious manner, his stern and strong beliefs, paint a rather austere picture. However there was no doubt he was held in great respect, admiration and affection by his colleagues at Parliament House. His grave is at Brandhoek Cemetery, close to a casualty clearing station, and some distance from the trenches at Hooze. It can be assumed that he was badly wounded, and taken to the CCS, where he died. As well as the Faculty war memorial, his most visible memorial is the James Clark School, still remembered with affection in Edinburgh. He is also remembered on the Paisley Grammar School memorial. http://www.advocates.org.uk/media/2172/warmemorialwordpdf3.pdf

Conley, Henry Alfred  Joined as a boy soldier in 1914 saw service until 1919, wounded twice but survived with only the mental and physical scars to die age 76. (744 Rifle Brigade & 302289 Royal Scots). He was definately in the 2/7th Royal Scots in Ireland and it is thought he went to 9th or 13th Royal Scots from there on 30.3.1918. Henry Conley 302289 was with the 2/7th Royal Scots in Ireland and I think was posted to France with the 2/9th Royal Scots in Feb 1918. He was wounded soon after. Great War Forum and here H. Conley 302289 was wounded twice and was awarded two wound stripes. The first was on 18th August 1916 as confirmed in 7th Rifle Brigade war diaries. I believe the second was with 9th Royal Scots during period Feb 1918 to June 1918. He was certainly still serving with it in 1911 but I have a feeling that he must have been on the reserve when the war broke out. According to his medal card, he entered a theatre of war on 20 September 1914. However, the 2nd Battalion Middlesex Regiment didn't return from Malta until November 1914 so he couldn't have still been with them.  Corral served with the 9th Battalion Royal Scots, part of the 51st Highland Division. In reserve on the 31 July, they went into the frontline trenches on 2 August where they remained until the 4th.  Corral died in a casualty clearing station on 5 August, presumably wounded by enemy shelling recorded in WD.  'HUMANITY AND FOR KING AND COUNTRY'  Private Corral's widowed mother (b.1851) chose his patriotic and idealistic inscription  http://ep.ita.ph/1098

Announcement of his death – as follows: 9th Royal Scots Private James Couper, D Company, 9th Royal Scots, who was home on furlough, died at Colinton Hospital yesterday. He was the eldest son of Mr Robert Couper, 51 Lauderdale Street. 2. Funeral arrangements and invitation to attend – as follows: For Their Country	-

Couper – At Colinton Mains Hospital on the 29th inst., suddenly, Private James Couper, D Company, 1/9th Royal Scots (Highlanders) aged 21 years (home on furlough), eldest son of Robert Couper, 51 Lauderdale Street. Funeral on Saturday 31st inst., from hospital at 3.30pm to Morningside Cemetery. Friends please accept this intimation and invitation. 3. Report about the Funeral – as follows: Funeral of 9th Royal Scots Private On Saturday a military funeral was given to the late Private James Couper, 1/9th Royal Scots from Colinton Hospital to Morningside Cemetery. Private Couper who resided with his parents at 51 Lauderdale Street, was only 21 years of age, went out with the first Battalion to Flanders, and was through all the engagements that his company took part in. He was one of twenty left in D Company. Before he came home on furlough he was nominated for a commission in the 3/6th Black Watch and would have received his commission in a few days but for his untimely death. Colonel Colville, the commanding officer of the 3/6th Black Watch, who has taken a great interest in Private Couper, travelled from the camp, Bridge of Earn, to attend the funeral and to express to the young soldier's parents his own and his brother officers' deep regret at their son's sudden and unexpected death. Private Couper was of an exceptionally pleasant disposition and was universally liked by all he came in contact with. Although not in very good health when he came home he was very anxious to return to the front and take his place along with his comrades. On reporting himself at Edinburgh Castle the doctor there detained him, and while in hospital he developed a serious illness, which cut short a promising career in the Army. St Michaels
Couper, James, CWGC: Pte "D" Coy. 9th Bn. WWR: The eldest son of Mr. R. Couper, Edin., was born in 1894, and attended G.W.C. 1899-1909. As scrum-half ' he played for Lauriston House XV. while at School, and later was a member of Watsonian 'A' and Trinity XVs. He left the service of the Scottish Union and National Insurance Coy. to enlist in the 9th H.S. [R.S.] in 1914, and served with his Bn. in Flanders. After coming unscathed through the heavy fighting at St. Julien, he was home on leave in Edin., when he died at Colinton Hospital.  https://www.gwc.org.uk/default/cache/file/4DB7297F74F619DD7B8E4052FE0633B5.jpg	GWC

Donkin, Harry Semmons, Pte d. 17 May 1918 'from: West Jesmond, Newcastle My uncle Harry Donkin died in a hospital in Maidstone of his wounds on 17 May 1918. He was 19 years old. I have started to research his war record and know that: He enlisted in West Jesmond, Newcastle upon Tyne, in the King's Royal Rifle corps with service number 19574. He was transferred to the Royal Scots at some point (I have a photograph of him in this regimental uniform) with the service number 302284. He died of his wounds in a hospital somewhere in Maidstone. Although he is recorded by the commonwealth war graves as being in the 9th battalion of the Royal Scots, he appears in 'Soldiers Died' under the 1st Battalion 'depot' as Harry Doukin (the n being mistaken for a u). On the medal roll index he originally appears as Dorkin but this has been corrected to his proper name of Donkin. The family apparently requested his medal in 1923 and one was issued at that time. I am interested to know where he served, where he was wounded and the nature of his injuries. I understand I will need to find out when he transferred from the Rifles to the Scots. Many thanks for your help.' Dymock, Bryce S., Pte 3121 -  Linlithgowshire Gazette 4/8/1916 Bryce Sinclair Dymock was born on 5th May 1895 at 59 High Street, Linlithgow. His father James Blair Dymock was an Ironmonger. His mother Elizabeth Dunlop Dymock's maiden name was Duncan. Both of Bryce's parents were natives of Linlithgow. After completing his apprenticeship, he worked in Edinburgh with Messrs Scott and Co., wholesale ironmongers in the Grassmarket. On 10th February 1915, aged 19, Bryce enlisted in the 9th Battalion Royal Scots, a Territorial unit, known as the "Dandy Ninth" He signed up for the duration of the war listing his home address as Lilybank Cottage, Linlithgow. He was assigned to "B" Company, 9th Battalion with service number 3121. Bryce went to France in September 1915. During the battle of the Somme, Bryce was recorded on his medal card and death certificate of dying of wounds, aged 21 on 23rd July 1916. On 4 August 1916, the West Lothian Courier reported: Mrs James Blair Dymock, Lilybank Cottage, Linlithgow, received the sad intelligence on Friday last that her younger son Bryce, a private in the Royal Scots had been killed in action. A Lance Corporal in the same regiment wrote Mrs Dymock a sympathetic note, in the course of which he said that Bryce was killed on the morning on 22nd July. The writer proceeded, "He was loved and honoured by everyone of us. I saw him before he went into the trenches, and we made it up that if one of us was hit the other would inform the parents. There is one consolation," he concludes, "Bryce died a hero with a smile on his face. May God help you in this your hour of sorrow." Bryce Sinclair Dymock was born in Linlithgow 21 years ago. He was educated at Linlithgow Academy and served his apprenticeship with his late father's firm of Messrs Dymock Bros, ironmongers. After its completion, he, to gain further experience, entered the employment of Messrs Scott and Co., wholesale	0629 -

ironmongers, Grassmarket, Edinburgh. In February, 1915, he joined the Royal Scots, and proceeded to the front at the beginning of September, 1915. He wrote his mother regularly very cheerful letters, breathing the true spirit of the young ardent soldier. He was justly proud that his brigade held the record of the British Army, occupying as it did the trenches and close supports for 41/2 months on end. After a few day's rest his regiment was sent to the south to assist the big push. On 4 August 1916, the Linlithgow Journal and Gazette reported: On Friday last information reached Linlithgow that Private Bryce Sinclair Dymock, of the Royal Scots, younger son of Mrs Dymock, Lilybank Cottage Linlithgow, and of the late Mr James Blair Dymock, of Dymock Bros. grocers, ironmongers, and seed merchants, Linlithgow, had fallen in France. Private Dymock was 21 years of age. He was educated at Linlithgow Academy, and was regarded by his teachers and schoolfellows as a particularly nice boy. He joined the army in February of last year and had been in France since September. The news of his death was conveyed in a letter to his mother by one of his chums at the front. The writer in the course of his letter, which is of date 24th July, states :- "Dear Mrs Dymock - Just a short note to inform you that Bryce was killed on the morning of the 22nd inst. He was loved and honoured by everyone of us. I saw him before he went into the trenches, and we made it up that if one of us was hit the other would inform the parents. Mrs Dymock, you have one consolation, and that is Bryce died a hero with a smile on his face. I will do my best to get a photo taken of his grave, so it will give you an idea of his last resting place." Prior to the outbreak of war, the deceased young soldier had entered upon a business career of much promise, and in Linlithgow, where he was well known and highly respected there is deep regret at his death and wide-spread sympathy with his sorrowing mother and brother. The latter (Thedford) is also in the Army and at present being trained for the position of an officer in the Royal Field Artillery.
